*Statutes governing workhours for 14- and 15-year-olds use the phrase, “while school is in session,” for the three-hour day, 18-hour week. The U.S. Department of Labor considers the term “school in session” to mean the scheduled schooldays of the public school system in the county where the minor resides. A school week under federal standards is any week during which school is in session for at least one day. Since the school session is derived from the schedule for the county’s public schools, school may be considered in session for a minor who attends a private school that is closed during the summer if the public schools are in session at that same time.

**A “schoolday” is any day that the minor is required to attend school for 240 minutes or more.
